Women represent an overwhelming majority of the healthcare workforce, yet they are significantly underrepresented in senior leadership positions. There is some way to go to achieve gender balanced leadership teams that are truly representative of the populations they serve.

The unique Women into Leadership Healthcare conference, taking place in Central London on 29th September 2020 and in Leeds on 26th November 2020, explore the role of women in healthcare leadership and offer practical advice and coaching on how to further develop your career in times of change. We will discuss together how we can manage the challenges of modern leadership and help ensure we don't lose momentum in recognising and rewarding female leaders across the health and social care landscape.

Why attend?

- Identify the unique leadership challenges and opportunities facing women in health and social care today
- Learn how successful women negotiate for what they need to be effective leaders
- Gain a deeper understanding of the skills, qualities and attributes needed to be a successful leader
- Design your own breakout session schedule, based on your own needs and aspirations
- Raise the visibility of women as senior leaders in health and social care

- Create a lasting network of women leaders who are effecting change across the health and social care landscape
